

London's Super Kebab Wins 2015 Best Doner Award

By Gary Cutlack on at

If you're drunk and lost and hungry and in need of a place to gather your thoughts and hopefully be allowed to use the toilet in the Stoke Newington area of London, Super Kebab is the place to go -- it's won an award for selling the best kebab. A kebab so good you'll feel bad about chucking the salad on the kerb outside.

Super Kebab beat 500 other London kebab houses to win the best takeaway award at the British Kebab awards, thanks to a judging panel that included MP Keith Vaz and restaurateur James Breslaw. Outside of the capital Liverpool's Botan Kebab House was deemed to be heating its meat the best, with Sheesh in Chigwell picking up the award for offering the best "fine dining" experience in all kebabery. [Guardian]

Image credit: Kebab shop from Shutterstock